

2010 Community Project Funding Recommendations

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT TAX SERVICE

In 2010, $38,000 was allocated by the CVRD from the Economic Development tax service for funding community projects. These funds have accumulated over four years since the service was established, in May 2007, and includes the (approx) $3000 currently held in the DIRA account from 2007. DICEEC was given the responsibility of providing recommendations for funding to the CVRD.

THE PROCESS

2010 Community Project Funding was announced to Denman residents at DIRA meetings and through the Grapevine, with an intake period ending June 21, 2010.

Applicants for Community Project Funding were provided with an application form and a copy of DICEEC's Funding Guidelines, a document developed by the committee and approved by the CVRD.

The role of the CVRD Community Services Coordinator was to answer inquiries and assist with applications, if required. Four applicants received assistance.

The role of the DICEEC members was to develop weighting criteria to guide project evaluation, which recommended that projects be given preference which:

- Have economic benefit to the Community
- Are consistent with community values
- Leverage Economic Development funding
- Include community partnerships and collaboration
- Demonstrate project planning and feasibility

Three community members were approached to serve as an arms-length review panel. They reviewed applications independently, then met to discuss as a group and make their recommendations.

The panel consisted of:

David Graham - Islands Trustee, former small business owner, marketing background
Rudy Friesen - Retired accountant with the Federal Govt.
Janet Simpson-Cooke - Outreach Liaison with Vancouver Island Economic Alliance

Seven applications were received, with four being recommended for funding.

All applicants were notified by email, advising them of the panel's decision. Unsuccessful applicants were also advised of the panel's rationale for their decision.
